DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Lazaris et al.

There is disclosed in Lazaris a beverage preparation machine, comprising: a first piercing element 42 for forming an inlet, in use, in a cartridge; and a second piercing element 44 for forming an outlet in the cartridge; wherein the first and second piercing elements are formed as a single removable unit 40. The piercing elements are unattached to a cartridge support member 32 which, in light of applicants disclosure, is defined as the beverage preparation machine.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 15-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lazaris et al. in view of Fischer '519.

Fischer discloses in a beverage preparation machine, the use of a fixed lower part 2, upper rotatable part 1, and inlet and outlet piercing elements.

It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to provide the machine of Lazaris with the fixed lower part and rotatable upper part disclosed in Fischer, in order to provide an alternative arrangement for securing a cartridge for injection of heated liquid.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 2-7, 9, 13 and 14 are allowed.

Claims 10-12 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 23 March 2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that the Lazaris reference fails to disclose piercing elements which are stationary in use during forming the inlet and the outlet. Applicant appears to be arguing the function of the device rather than the structural limitations. The use of the device does not distinguish a claim over a prior art reference meeting the structural limitations of that claim. Additionally, it could be argued that the piercing elements of Lazaris are stationary at the time the inlet and outlets are formed. There is no movement of the elements during the removal and entry of liquid.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
